3 in Jail on 1957 Racial Slaying

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Three white men remained jailed without bond on murder charges yesterday as Atty. Gen. Bill Baxley broadened an investigation of allegedly Ku Klux Klan-inspired violence that had gone unsolved for more than a decade.

The three were arrested Friday in connection with the slaying of a black truck driver in 1957. Charged with first-degree murder were William Kyle Livingston, a 38-year-old bail bondsman; James York, 73, a retired city sanitation worker; and Henry Alexander, a 46-year-old plumbing contractor.
